

WE NOMINATE

Arthur Lynds Bigelow, entering upon his third decade as a Princetonian and one of the world's best-known bellmasters, whose devotion to what he calls his "tail-that-wags-the-dog hobby" is making musical history. In the weeks just ahead, following some 20 years of painstaking research involving the University's Engineering School, the RCA Laboratories and a local foundry and mason's shop, the 52-year-old engineer will start applying his demonstrated theories to the reconstruction of the Cleveland Tower carillon with the expectation that this remarkable instrument "in the sky" will achieve a rare degree of acoustical balance—capable of rendering even the complex works of Bach, Beethoven and Chopin.

It is Bigelow's conclusion that the carillon, not to be confused with the familiar ding-dong (and often electronic) chimes heard from church and New England town-hall towers, is to be approached as a developed instrument, demanding of its performers the know-how of a skilled pianist or organist. As he prepares to add 37 bells to the Graduate College carillon, the gift of the University Class of 1892, Bigelow stresses that "the carillonneur doesn't ring bells but plays music on them" and notes that it is now possible to have once-clangy treble bells produce sounds with an intensity matching those of booming bass bells.

Princeton guidebooks describe Bigelow, professor of graphics in the University's School of Engineering, as "former bellmaster of the town of Louvain, Belgium," a statement substantiating the notion that the 400-year-old art of carillon-playing has been transplanted from Western Europe to the suburb-splotted New Jersey countryside by a Belgian. While Bigelow is Laureate of the Carillon School at Mechlin, Belgium, and still holds his Louvain appointment, he is a native of Springfield, Mass., who studied in Europe and became fascinated with the challenges of carillons after completing his engineering training at the University of Pittsburgh.

His interest in bells stretches back to his boyhood in Massachusetts, where he did his first "bell-playing" on the eight chimes of the Northfield Seminary. Later, as an undergraduate at Pittsburgh, he found an unused chime of 12 bells in the First Baptist Church, Pittsburgh. This he renovated and added a playing mechanism still in use today. He has since studied tens of thousands of bells in Europe and this country, has recorded bell dimensions and tones in a score of nations, and has perfected design equations and curves that have been proved successful in the bells he has designed, moulded, turned and tuned.

A 1,000-mile flight by bicycle—from the Low Countries to the Pyrenees before the advancing World War II legions of Nazi Germany—preceded Bigelow's move to Princeton in 1911. From their Flanders home, he and his wife had saved only the notes which within the next two years enabled him to renovate the Princeton Carillon, one of the world's largest and one of this community's "magnets" for casual visitors. Now consisting of 49 bells with a range of four full chromatic octaves, the '92 Carillon within the year ahead will be increased to 67 bells and will have its range extended by another octave and a half.

For his services as consultant for some of the country's most significant memorials, including the Washington Memorial at Valley Forge and the Taft Tower in Washington; for his contributions in the broad reaches of music; for insisting that a carillon is a "singing tower" and never a "jingle stack"; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee for

THE PRICE OF WELFARE

How Does Princeton Rate?

As a predominantly white-collar town, Princeton faces few of the welfare problems revealed in the controversy over the Newburgh, N. Y., plan to cut welfare costs. But even here it is possible to find those who believe the Borough and Township are not doing an adequate job.

The relatively small size of Princeton's welfare problem is indicated by the $16,000 which was spent by the Borough and Township Welfare Departments last year. "If we are erring at all, it is in the direction of penuriousness instead of largess," Borough Mayor Raymond F. Male believes.

Mayor Male explained that the privately operated Family Service Agency serves as a type of counterpart to public assistance. "Family Service is doing most of the Welfare Board's work," Mrs. Anne Hofgesang, a member of the Borough Welfare Board, added. According to Mrs. Mabel Reeves, executive secretary of the agency, 10 to 12 of the agency's monthly case load of 70 families also receive aid from other sources. Family Service, which handled all welfare for the Borough several decades ago, is now covered by the Princeton United Community Fund.

Few Cash Payments. Neither the Borough, which has an average of eight to 10 cases a month, nor the Township, which had 12 cases on its relief rolls last month, rely upon cash payments to those on relief. Actual cash payments are forbidden in the Borough, while in the Township cash is given only occasionally.

Although like other municipal welfare authorities the two Princeton Boards are reimbursed for approximately 40 per cent of their public assistance by the state, they are among the few in the state which do not give cash directly to all of their cases. They dispense emergency relief in such forms as grocery orders or payments to landlords.

Mayor Male, Mrs. Reeves, Mrs. Hofgesang and Mrs. Edith Moss, a member of the Township Welfare Board, oppose the local practice.

"Welfare is more than just feeding and clothing a body," argues Mrs. Moss. She contends that individuals entitled to welfare are those who will not stay on relief long and will be capable of handling cash funds. "If someone is unethical, he will stay on relief whether he gets cash or not," she added.

Because of the Labor Day holiday Monday, TOWN TOPICS' deadline for all display advertising will be Friday at 5 p.m. for the September 7th issue. News material should be submitted as early as possible.

Mrs. Hofgesang considers the changing of the Borough's 30-year old no-cash system "the beginning of improvement." Although admitting that cash allotments would require a higher budget because of some misuse of the money, she counters that the extra public spending will encourage a feeling of self-respect among relief cases that is not possible with a no-cash system.

Recreation or Welfare? Approval of such an increased welfare budget would require "convincing politicians that welfare needs as much as recreation," according to Mrs. Hofgesang. Recalling a lengthy dispute several years ago involving the preservation of trees in the Borough, she feels that "people need to be preserved as well."

WELFARE WOMAN: Mrs. Anne Hofgesang, a member of the Borough Welfare Board, says much of what should be public welfare is now handled by private agencies in Princeton. See story this page.

The member of the Borough Welfare Board also believes public and private welfare groups should work closely together. But in Princeton, they are "worlds apart" according to Mrs. Hofgesang.

In addition to Family Service, Princeton has another private counseling agency—the Child Guidance Center. Both organizations operate on a preventative basis, trying to assist people who might or might not eventually require relief, and use a pay-what-you-can afford approach.

As a member of the three-citizen Township Welfare Board, Mrs. Moss questions its value because it does not meet. "If we have a Board, we should have one that meets," she argues. (The Borough Board meets monthly.)

"There is an assumption that because we don't have a great welfare load, the paid personnel are capable of handling the work without the Board's help," she explained. She noted that, although Princeton may never need a large welfare department, it will perhaps always require a department of some size.

"The welfare situation is one of the arguments for consolidation of the Borough and Township," Mrs. Moss added. She noted that while neither the Borough nor the Township can afford to pay a trained social worker for its small work load, the combined municipalities would have enough cases to justify such expenditure.

The Borough Director, Mrs. Alice Schannel, works part-time in the Welfare Department, but the Township has two full-time officials in the Welfare Department. Mrs. Mary Kain, the Township Welfare Assistant, has a bachelor's degree in social work.

"If enough people would learn something about welfare, maybe something could be done about it," Mrs. Hofgesang believes.

LIBRARY SEEKS FUNDS For Architect's Guidance
The Princeton Public Library wants to hire an architect to help it look for a new home. In letters to the Borough and Township, the Library asked that any state library aid be earmarked for this purpose. Last year, when the Borough alone supported the Library, state aid totalled about $1200, according to Miss Margaret J. Barr, library director. Although the Library is now a joint Borough-Township venture, any state assistance would probably not be significantly greater, Miss Barr believes.

Prompted by the overcrowding in the Library's present building next to the Garden Theatre on Nassau Street, the Board of Trustees began searching for a new home for the library as soon as it took office early this year, according to Mrs. Ansley J. Coale Jr., chairman of the Board. "We soon realized we needed some expert advice," she explained.

DEADLINE AWAITED

For Appeal on School. Although the Township Zoning Board has approved the Sacred Heart School project, its decision will not be final until the appeal date expires in early October. Until then, the school will mark time, according to Russell O'Brien, chairman of Sacred Heart Project Princeton. Those opposing the location of the school on the 59-acre site on the Great Road have 45 days from this past Saturday to file notice of appeal of the Board's decision. By press time, there was strong indication that an appeal would be filed.

Mr. O'Brien's group will spend the intervening weeks reviewing its plans. In a letter to the friends and sponsors of the project, Mr. O'Brien noted "there are still many details to be developed," but promised that additional news would follow "very shortly."

He also thanked a group of six women who made the canvass of potential students in the Princeton area — a study which was cited by the Board in granting a special permit to the school. The group: Mrs. Mary Aeff, Mrs. Phyllis L. Collins, Mrs. Margaret B. Conside, Mrs. Margaret K. Maxwell, Mrs. Louise J. Morse and Mrs. Anne C. O'Brien.

MOTORISTS CAUTIONED

To Watch For School Tots. With Princeton's schools due to open September 7, Borough Chief of Police Raymond A. Mondone has urged all motorists to be on the alert for school children crossing streets at intersections and elsewhere. He also warned drivers be careful of older children riding bicycles to school.

Chief Mondone further expressed the hope that drivers would be careful to obey the traffic laws governing a school bus when it is discharging or picking up passengers. "Of course, he added, "they should obey not only school bus laws, but all traffic laws throughout the year."

PRINCETONIANS ADVANCE

Vie for State Architect
Chinee. Two Princeton architects are preparing advanced designs for the second stage of the contest which will determine the official architect of New Jersey's exhibit in the 1964-65 World's Fair. Philip S. Collins, 12 Boudinot Street, and John R. Diehl, 84 Clover Lane, were among the four first-stage winners in the state-wide contest.

The winning designs for the Tercentenary are on exhibit at the Newark Museum. A Prize of $1000 will be paid for each winning entry when the second and final designs are submitted this winter. Preliminary winners were selected by a professional jury representing the Tercentenary Committee.

PERSONALITIES

Mrs. Janet Agle Gemmell, Province Line Road, novelist and journalist, whose excellent, nationally syndicated article, "The Decline of Good Old Rover," is featured in the current (September) issue of Reader's Digest.

In this piece, coinciding with the humid "dog days" of late August and early September, Mrs. Gemmell, whose husband is Administrative Vice President of Princeton University, pens a delightful lament—asking "where are the uncomplicated, unpedigreed, unattached canine hobos of yesterday?"

ciate in the Educational Testing Service, a potent force in the development of the so-called "Rutgers Plan," which seeks to alleviate the plight of overworked English teachers by cutting class size in half. This far-reaching program, calling for increased emphasis on individual compositions, "free reading" in large groups directed by college-educated housewives and lightened routines for teachers, will be implemented on an experimental basis this month in four Detroit and six Chicago high schools.

Daniel W. Kane, a Princetonian since early childhood, retires from the Princeton Post Office today after 39 years of service. A familiar face to area residents at the parcel post and stamp window, Mr. Kane began working for the Princeton office on October 24, 1922. The 60-year old civil servant resides with his wife, Jean, at 179 Jefferson Road.

Person To Person

Talking about Labor Day, an acquaintance said, "It's a paradox I'll never understand that a large percentage of the radicals in this country are drawn from the ranks of Labor. True," he said. "The vast majority of Labor is very blue, but how even a very small percentage can have the wool drawn over their eyes to such an extent is a mystery."

He said, "When Labor Day comes around each year it's not a bad idea to remember that only in the free world can such a holiday be a celebration, for Labor has little to celebrate behind the iron curtain. There the people, men, women, and children, work where, when, and how they are ordered, and they had better not even whisper any complaint about their wages." He added, "You know, all history proves that Labor has fared worse under every society ever conceived than under competitive enterprise. And the 'Utopia' promised by the Russian Revolutionists turned into a 'Utopia' where Unionism is outlawed, and it is treason just to voice an opinion contrary to the dictates of the Kremlin. 'If we will but reflect on these facts,' he said, 'it will give each of us good reason first of all, to offer a prayer of thankfulness, regardless of the imperfections of our own society, and second, to avow our allegiance to our country and the best way of life ever conceived by man.' (He stated it too well for us to want to add any comment of our own, excepting, A HAPPY and SAFE Labor Day to you!)

Learning of Mr. Ewing's handicap, Aristotle Pharisios, owner of the Princeton Swim Club, where Mrs. Griffin gives instruction, offered the club's facilities free of charge.

Red Cross Workers Drove. Through the volunteer help of the Princeton and Trenton Red Cross Motor Corps, Mr. Ewing was brought to the pool four times a week.

Not only does he now execute perfectly front surface dives in both pike and tuck position and a dolphin or back surface dive, but he also does seven of the nine styles of swimming: side stroke, single overarm, trudgeon, trudgeon crawl, American crawl, elementary back stroke and back crawl.

For the past two summers Mr. Ewing has taken an active part in the life saving courses and has mastered the phases which will enable him to save himself in the event of trouble. He can perform the releases for the front head, rear head, and wrist grip holds. He can disrobe in record time, float and tread water endlessly.

Mrs. Griffin, Mr. Pharisios and the Motor Corps drivers have enabled Mr. Ewing to overcome the social barriers facing a handicapped person and at the same time achieve a measure of physical rehabilitation.

BUSINESS AS USUAL

Township Considers 3 S's. It was a case of business as usual Monday night as Township Committee faced the perennial problems of the three "S's" — sidewalks, streets and sewers. As usual, residents were present to oppose the committee on each of the three items.

Neither the Committee nor the irate residents scored a complete victory. The Committee passed unanimously an ordinance providing sidewalks for Jefferson Road but deferred action on paving Leavitt Lane and assessing the Herontown Road sewer.

The $16,000 Jefferson Road sidewalk ordinance ate up nearly half of the four-hour session. Henry Frank, 273 Jefferson Road, James A. McFadden, 151 Mt. Lucas Road, and Raymond Cortelyou, 224 Jefferson Road, led the opposition to the proposal to build sidewalks from Mt. Lucas Road to Guyot Avenue.

These individuals objected to being assessed for 50 per cent of the cost of something they did not want and questioned the actual need for the sidewalks. Other Jefferson Road residents present confined themselves to asking questions about details of the operation.

Committee members felt, however, that the need had already been decided by the report of the citizens' committee which studied sidewalks. Mayor R. Kenneth Fairman also pointed out that only recently has the Township paid 50 per cent of the cost of sidewalks.

FROM ALL POINTS OF THE COMPASS: As Princeton prepares to observe the "long" Labor Day Weekend, to be highlighted locally Monday by Princeton Engine Company No. 1's day-long outing at Squatters' Grove, Princetonians by the drove are starting back to what Nassau alumni love to call "the best old place of all." Kim and Tom McDowell, children of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel McDowell, Province Line Road, seem to catch the spirit of "the road back"—to every-day living, to what a Princeton poet once called "the swirl and laugh and beat of Nassau Street."

Where to Draw the Line? In the case of Leavitt Lane, the Committee apparently recognized the residents' objections. But members of the governing body emphasized the difficulty of making an exception for this individual case.

Leavitt Lane was constructed 15 years ago by a developer but was never accepted as a Township road. Now, the municipality proposes to accept the road, improve it and charge the residents two-thirds of the cost.

The residents claimed that a 300-foot strip of the road lying in the Township was no different from the surrounding roads, all constructed by the same developer and accepted by the Township. Former Township Committeeman Bertrand L. Gulick Jr., 1082 Princeton - Kingston Road, came vocally to the aid of the residents, noting that police and fire vehicles had been using the road for the past 15 years.

But Mayor Fairman pointed out that if an exception were made in this case, a developer could construct sub-standard roads with the knowledge that they would be accepted sooner or later. The Committee will probably reconsider the issue at its meeting next Tuesday.

Assessment Deferred. The Herontown Road sewer assessments, which were scheduled to be heard by the Committee Monday night, were returned to the Board of Assessors for a rehearing there. Many residents did not receive notice of the original hearing before the Board.

Getting back to the matter of sidewalks, the Committee reconsidered and passed unanimously the ordinance providing walks for both sides of Grover Avenue. Originally passed at the August 9 meeting by a 3-1 vote, the ordinance required two-thirds of the full five-man Committee for final approval.

Committeeman Thomas Cook, who opposed the ordinance earlier because of the provision for putting walks on both sides, moved to reconsider when Committeeman John S. Mount pointed out that it would only be a matter of time before the ordinance would be passed. Four of the five members were on record in favor, but had been unable to get together at the same meeting. In other action, the committee awarded bids for Alternaty Drive sidewalks, Cedar Lane sidewalks, the John Street - Valley Road sewer, the basketball courts at the Grover Avenue playground, the grading and seeding of seven acres of the Community Gardens property, and gasoline for Township vehicles.

NEW POST CREATED

For Township Schools. The Township Board of Education has appointed Edward B. Martin to the newly-created post of secretary to the Board of Education and business manager of Township schools. Previously the Board secretary worked half-time and there was no business manager.

The present shuffle is designed to free the Superintendent from some of the business details of the schools and to enable him to devote more time to educational matters. Last year, Dr. John J. McKenna Jr., now acting Superintendent of Township schools, served half-time as assistant superintendent.

As secretary of the Board of Education, Mr. Martin replaces Norman J. Anderson, who last July submitted his resignation as Board secretary, effective September 1. A recipient of both Bachelor's and Masters degrees in economics from Rutgers, Mr. Martin is currently completing his doctoral work there.

The 33-year old Elizabeth resident has had classroom teaching experience on the elementary, high school and college levels. He expects to move to Princeton soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Abell, 2 Newman Road, Franklin Park; Mr. and Mrs. Alfredo Menendez, 217-A Mercer Street; Mr. and Mrs. John J. Horan, 342 Herrington Road, all August 23. Mr. and Mrs. Willie Bullock, 108 Leigh Avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. George Young, 35 Kendall Road, Franklin Park, both August 25, and Mr. and Mrs. Grahame H. Rees, Ridgeview Road, August 26. Parents of daughters include Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Pardee III, Woomansons Road, Pennington, August 22; Commander and Mrs. Walter C. Blatman, 39 Evergreen Circle, August 23. Mr. and Mrs. William R. Flury, 9 Alyce Court, Nassau Estates, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Turnquist, Mosher Road, both August 25.

LARGE LOTS URGED

For Hopewell Township. A report on the water and drainage conditions in Hopewell Township, issued this week by the Stony Brook-Millstone Watersheds Association, indicates a long road toward residential development. Poor permeability and inadequate drainage are familiar problems to residents of certain Princeton Township areas, which share Hopewell's geological formations.

Over two-thirds of Hopewell Township is characterized by clay soil over Brunswick shale, and lots of one-half to two-thirds acres would probably be "satisfactory," with the all-important provision of public sewage facilities. The expense of such installations, long put off by many municipalities, runs high.

Labeled "not limits" for dense urban development are scattered diabase and argillite, which constitute over 25% of the Township's underlying structure. Lots should be at least three acres on the diabase, an extremely hard rock formation found in 10% of the area, and even scattered construction is hazardous because poor well production and septic drainage prevail.

In the argillite sections, the "marginal" lot size is two acres. Septic systems often overflow and do not function properly, especially in the winter and early spring. In many cases, two or three wells have been drilled to obtain an adequate water supply for a household.

Although there is no definite yardstick for determining minimum lot size in a given geologic section, the report points out that the heavy clay soils developed by the diabase, argillite and certain areas of the shale have a low percolation rate with poor to non-existent subsurface drainage. On hicker ground, where diabase and argillite are found, individual septic systems often overflow and contaminate wells. Only extremely large seepage fields, namely large lots, can control this problem.

Even with a sandy loam soil, such as that formed on the Stockton sandstone (only 8% of the total), pollution is probable on lots of half an acre or less where there are individual wells and septic tanks. Public sewer and water systems would be the ideal solution, but the necessary blasting in the diabase and argillite areas would be expensive.

Well water production in the shale is dubbed "satisfactory for most rural and light suburban needs" by the report. The average yield is 500,000 gallons per day per square mile. Daily family water consumption ranges from 200 gallons in rural sections to 450 gallons in urban areas.

The average Princeton Township family uses 350 gallons daily on a public water supply, while the amount in Pennington is 200. The latter figure is expected to rise substantially when and if public sewers are installed and overflowing septic tanks are no longer a problem.

Copies of the report have been given to the Hopewell Township Committee and the Planning Board by Malcolm Crooks, executive director of the Watersheds Association. Both groups may well have to restudy zoning requirements in the light of this new information. For instance, on parts of the diabase area, present zoning laws allow up to 40 families on ten acres, while the report states that overall there is only enough water to support three or four families.

Poor permeability, a feature of the Township's soil and rock structure, means erosion during construction and later from roof gutters and natural drainageways, as well as wet basements. The feasibility of basement construction in some of the areas is questionable.

The information in the report was gathered from the State Geologist's office in Trenton, and from Dr. Erling Dorf of Princeton University. The State Bureau of Geology is conducting further research on Hopewell Township's rock structures.

PHILATELISTS INVITED
To Join Princeton Club. The Princeton Philatelic Club has extended an invitation to area stamp collectors to attend its meetings and join the club.

The group meets regularly on the first and third Tuesday of each month at 8 in the evening in the basement of the First Presbyterian Church. The Club will meet Tuesday and again on September 19. Dues are one dollar a year.

Additional information may be obtained by calling James F. Farr of 545 Mercer Road (WA 4-2363).

McCARTER ADDS THREE To Resident Staff. McCarter Theatre has added three new members to its resident staff for the coming season, which is just over the horizon. Mr. and Mrs. Rod McManigal and Miss Karen Oleson will join returning staffers as they prepare for the late September opening.

Mr. McManigal, a free-lance writer and critic, will take charge of the theatre's publicity, and his wife, Gill, will work as a designer. The McManigals come to McCarter from theatre work in England.

A graduate of Columbia University, Mr. McManigal was an actor for the BBC and performed with the Oxford Theatre Group at the Edinburgh Festival. His wife is British by birth and has worked with Delaney Studios, Convent Garden, Sadler's Wells, Oxford Playhouse and the Festival Ballet.

The third new staff member at McCarter, Miss Oleson, will be program and promotions director. She was previously a publicist for the Berkshire Playhouse.

The McCarter Guild
Box 526, Princeton, Gen. Mem. $1

Returning for their second season with the resident company will be Milton Lyon, artistic director; Brooks Jones, producer; Mrs. Herbert McAneny, general manager; Gilbert Hemsley, production stage manager; Hugh Hardy, artistic coordinator; Nancy Shannon, guild administrator; and David Vaughan, publications director.

THE PLAYHOUSE

The Honeymoon Machine (August 30-September 2) continues the light vein started by "Tammy Tell Me True" at the Playhouse. As far as name actors and deep character analysis are concerned, it isn't much, but it has a situation to top all situations.

As bright young Navy lieutenants, Steve McQueen (better known for his work as the star of television's "Dead or Alive") and Jack Mullaney have the bright idea of putting the computer used in a missile guidance system to work at more important things—predicting the winning numbers on a roulette wheel.

Although the mathematicians at the University may not approve of all of this, it makes good watching, as the fleet anchors in Venice and the pair proceeds to communicate data to the computer (cryptically named MAX) by blinker light from the shore. They are aided in this project by the civilian scientist who designed MAX to begin with, played by Jim Hutton.

NOW HE'S PRODUCER. Brooks Jones, associate producer of last year's resident company at McCarter Theatre, will take charge as producer this season. Last year's producer, Milton Lyon, has assumed the position of artistic director.

Of course Hollywood has gone and complicated this basically hilarious plot with details such as girls (Brigid Bazlen and Paula Prentiss, in particular, one of whom is an admiral's daughter). Also, there is a fair amount of slapstick, but neither this nor the addition of the love interest overcome the fundamental appeal of the plot.

Claudette Inglish (September 3-5) marks another addition to the seemingly endless stream of films emphasizing the decadence of portions of the South. It presents little that is new except for a particularly unsavory female.

Diane McBain stars in the title role of a young girl who first goes the way of altogether too many young girls in today's movies and then discovers, just as do many film and heroines, that men are not always faithful. Her reaction to this discovery constitutes what little meat there is in the story.

The adaptation from the Erskine Caldwell novel of the same name is not particularly good, but then neither was the novel to begin with. The Leonard Freeman production, directed by Gordon Douglas, is adequate, considering the material with which it deals, but nothing to get excited about.

The Young Doctors (September 6-12) is a souped-up "Dr. Kildare" story, replete with multiple doctor-patient romances and friendships and doctor-doctor conflicts. Although our knowledge of the inner workings of American hospitals is limited at best, we suspect that if doctors really spend this much time treating friends and loved ones, they wouldn't have time for anyone else.

For movie-goers interested in such "hospital confidential" revelations, "The Young Doctors" offers a long list of stars ranging from the experienced Fredric March to the teen-age idol Dick Clark, with Eddie Albert and Ben Gazzara filling the mid-range. Gazzara is in love with a pretty young nurse

HE HAS ONE: Verner Schmid of 151 McCosh Circle, Professor of Civil Engineering at Princeton University, who is seen standing in the fallout shelter in the basement of his home has this to say about the wisdom of building a shelter: "I think every circumspet person should consider building a fallout shelter for his family as an insurance premium. I think Civil Defense is the soft underbelly of the defensive posture of the United States." That many of his fellow citizens disagree with Professor Schmid's warning is clearly evident below!

Question of the Week

Question: Have the present threats to world peace led you to consider building a fallout shelter?

Where asked: Around town

Mrs. Charles Mapes, 56 Lafayette Street, Hopewell, housewife: No, because when that bomb falls, I want to go with it. I don't want to be around to see what has happened and who has been killed. I don't want to be one of the survivors.

Melvin Wyble, Grovers Mill, music teacher: No, it has not. The bombs are so devastating I don't think you would be any safer there than you would be in your own home. I just don't think it will ever come to that. Certainly, if Russia drops a bomb on us we are going to drop some on them.

Mrs. Donovan R. Ellis Jr., 126 Clover Lane, housewife: It certainly has made me more conscious of the need for protection in our home. However, we haven't gone as far as putting any type of shelter in our house. It certainly is on everybody's mind. Everybody is talking about it but no one seems to be doing anything about it. We all wish we had a shelter, but we are not willing to go the whole way of investing a lot of money in one. I think the expense part is what is holding everybody back.

Edwin H. Rian, 404 Snowden Lane, educator: No, because I think the chances of world war are slight.

Mrs. Carl G. Wright, Cold Soil Road, Lawrence Township, housewife: Frankly, no. I feel we're in a very strategic spot in this area and I think it is kind of a hopeless situation. Instead we have to make every effort to see that they don't throw the bomb on either side. And that will be a neat trick if we can do it.

Charles Britsch, 8 Random Road, cryo-technologist for cancer research: Yes, I've given it some thought and I'd say that recent events have brought it to a head. We intend to set an area in our cellar aside for use as a shelter.

Mrs. Jesse F. Pariso, Skillman housewife: No, mainly. I feel if an attack takes place, a fallout shelter will provide very little shelter for survival. I am a pessimist about the whole thing. I feel if there is going to be an attack, there will be utter destruction and desolation and I don't want to prolong it for a week or two by staying in a shelter.

Miss Margaret McHenry, 52-A Hartley Avenue, domestic: No, I don't think a fallout shelter makes much differ-"Moles with Guns"

While the Soviet Union is accelerating full-blast ahead with Civil Defense plans, and is stressing the importance of constructing fallout shelters, the Soviet propaganda mill can't resist twitting the United States about what it believes to be a booming fallout shelter program in this country.

Inspired by a recent report in Time Magazine, which asserted that the proud owner of a newly completed fallout shelter in Texas is "going to mount a machine gun at the hatch to keep neighbors out if a bomb falls," Pravda referred jeeringly to the new American phenomenon "moles with machine guns."

Lending credence to Time's reportage, and conceivably to the Russian's assertions, has been the attitude expressed by some Princetonians, who have either just built, or are now building, fallout shelters.

This handful shies away from any and all publicity, according to TOWN TOPICS' inquiring reporter, for two reasons: "They don't want others to know that they have them, or they don't want others to think they are crazy."

ce. If there is going to be a war, no one will be safe not even in a fallout shelter.

George Steiner, 32 Clover Lane, writer: No, because I am going abroad. In fact, among the places I shall be visiting is Berlin. My feeling now is that in event of war, no one can really try to guess where the point of greatest danger will be. I feel an attacker would have to concentrate almost exclusively on the United States. If I were the Russians, I wouldn't waste any bombs on Europe.

Gunnel Wonnacott, 217-B Marshall Street, housewife: Oh, yes, definitely. I am all for building shelters because they may save a lot of lives. There is always a chance we will survive, if we have shelters. But I feel this should be a project of the government. I feel the government should have provided shelters for the people and should have started building them a long time ago. I would be in favor of paying an additional 2 to 3 per cent more income tax to help pay for it. I only hope that if everybody starts building fallout shelters now, Russia won't misinterpret the act and think we are preparing for an all-out war. Yes, I would say the world situation has influenced my thinking.

Edward Lyden, 23 Columbia Avenue, Hopewell, research assistant, Dept. of Geology, Princeton University: No. First of all, the expense of putting one in the old house I bought last year would be too high. It would mean considerable renovating of the basement plus a lot of other entailed expenses which, at this time, I don't feel I could afford. Secondly, I'm a bit dubious about the whole concept, anyway. The space of a shelter is so limited that the mental strain a family would be subjected to over a two-week period, or more, would be more than the average family could conceivably tolerate. It just isn't worth it. Being realistic about it, I don't think the American way of life lends itself to being confined to such a small space over a protracted period of time.

Mrs. Furman Hendrickson, Greenwood Avenue, Hopewell, housewife: Yes, somewhat. I just sent for civil defense material concerning a shelter. But I don't think we will build one. Like all typical Americans, we probably won't do anything about it until we see it happen. I was more concerned about the supplies you need in order to survive for two weeks than an actual shelter. We plan to stay in the cellar. If we don't make it there, why worry about it?

IT'S NEW To Us

ITALIAN BOOT

Flat, Soft. They aren't really Italian boots at all, of course; we're just saying that. They're flats for girls and ladies, but they come from Italy and they are made with fine Italian craftsmanship and the Italian sense for style.

Hulit's brings, from the house of Lujano, a collection of these relaxed little shoes. Many of them have unusual heels, like the boat-shaped one, or the pear, or the squash. Sit with your feet up on a table, just to show off. Wide saddle stitching goes around the various edges of one style: black on deep green, beige on black. We say "wide" to mean that the actual thread of leather used in the stitching is wide, and the effect is unusual. A square-toed shoe with oval vamp extending up the instep, is quite without adornment, and immensely effective because of this. It looks rather like a man's slipper, this shoe. Comes in gold, deep brown and black. Gold, tobacco and black are the shades available in a squared-off moccasin toe. $10.95 for all.

Edith Henry, who may never even have been to Italy, for all we know, has pointed toes Magenta?

There's a color around this fall, in various fabrics, dresses, skirts and the like, called magenta. Or deep, bright raspberry. Or hopped up fuchsia.

In any case, it's a positive color, to say the least, even when it appears as a single line in a plaid. Clayton's, confronted with the necessity for decision, has bought magenta sparingly, preferring to concentrate on other less alarming colors that are about this fall. Ginger, for one, appears frequently in Clayton yard goods or skirts. A limpid emerald green called Gauguin—softer than Kelly, brighter than emerald—will give a lift to any fall costume. And a warm fuchsia makes an intoxicating cocktail hat. But magenta?

on her flats this fall. Moroccan pebble leathers with small buckles on top of bows, or shoestrings bows or bows with three layers all draw eye to the pointed toe.

Every scholar in town will want Sandler's Swatchbook, a patchwork of colored suedes all treated with Scotchguard to fend off mud and scuff. Rust red, grey, tan, wine and tobacco are all combined in patches in a single shoe, in case you didn't believe us when we said "Swatchbook." There is a little tie to hold them all together. $8.95.

As if this weren't enough, there is also a drawing bag ($5) of tobacco, rust, brown and grey. You can have the shoe in black, but why settle for one color when you can have five for the price?

Footflair squares off to fight the battle of the toes with a square toe of its own, styled with a narrow medium heel. There is a row of leather stitching starting at both points of the square and running up the vamp like a pair of railroad tracks.

Air Step stacks a Cuban heel on a crepe sole for women who like to—or have to—walk. The shoe is tan, with either a pointed or squared toe. Another stacked heel in cafe au lait has a shy little flap over the vamp.

READY MADE

By You, or Someone Else. Wool fabrics at Clayton's this fall will make you get out your sewing machine even if all you've ever done before is mend.

You'll be particularly interested in the tubular knits, textured in various ways and concocted out of the warmest and most vibrant colors you could imagine. Cranberry red is the one that caught our eye. It's a brighter red than cherry, with less purple in it, and surely becoming to almost anybody. Then, there's a splendid purple, a warm taupe and a sage green that you'll be able to use with many different prints. All these are 54 inches wide.

Wool and mohair mix is the great stir for fall, as you know, and Clayton's provides both together in flecked tan and rust tweed, leaf green, deep royal blue and light powder blue.

If you like your colors blocked together in plaids, there are colorful ones—but subtle ones, if you can imagine the two together—in those fine should you buy a

SYLVAN POOL now?

here are the reasons why

1. Now is the time when Sylvan Pools' prices are the lowest ever on all 50 custom shapes & sizes. Choose an existing Sylvan shape or design your own with Sylvan.
2. Sylvan's prices now mean that you can save $250 up to $650 depending upon size. Example: a 20' x 40' pool priced at $4790 may now be purchased for $4390.
3. Pool shown above—the 3 pools in 1 Sylvan "S"—may now, for the first time, be purchased at no extra cost. Has clear swimming, separate diving & wading area.
4. By buying & installing your pool now you have the opportunity for arranging and completing all your landscaping before the next full swimming season arrives.
5. Buy and install your Sylvan Pool now and be assured of swimming from the firm warm day next season. This means you will have 100% usage of your pool next year.
6. The savings you'll enjoy for installation now may, in many cases, cover the purchase of a Pool Heater that will extend swimming throughout the month of October.
7. A Sylvan-engineered pool permits the free-forming of ice during the winter months. Thus, you can ice-skate and make your pool a year round recreation center.
8. Take advantage of Sylvan's 14 years of vast experience which includes over 2400 pools built to date including hotels, motels, apartment houses, etc.

fall shades of ginger, orange and an assertive brown, among others.

For informal sewing, like school clothes, den curtains and similar needle exercises, Clayton's has a row of striped denims that combine dark and bright colors in so many different ways you'll just have to go look for yourself.

Bates prints are small and dark, for small, dark little girls to wear. Other houses provide the bright colors in school prints.

One darrow drip-dry print in dark fall colors could line the jacket and make the blouse for a suit out of one of these woolens. How about it?

In the drapery department at Clayton's, you'll find some new linen and cotton textures, loosely woven like hurlap, but much more sophisticated and composed of two shades of beige, or beige and pale green, or natural and white, 50 inches wide, $2 a yard. Peg Reilly imports from England and Belgium will be along shortly for those who need a linen upholstery print.

Bernhard Altmann goes into the dye room again and comes out with skirts and sweaters dyed to match. Colors like ruby, Gauguin green and deep olive have been employed for fur-blended sweaters and skirts that are straight and darted or hip-stitched and pleated. A black Chanel jacket sweater will be useful, no matter what your skirt inventory.

On the skirt rack, there are combined colors like peacock, brown and orange, done in small plaids. Peacock and cranberry are solid colors. Doesn't a peacock skirt sound exciting?

Blouses this year are bright medallion prints that look like a stained glass window seen through a kaleidoscope, choirboy collars, printed Oxford cloth, collarless overblouses and powders are new to the scene this autumn. Wear one with that peacock skirt.

At the hat bar, Clayton's has lots of fabric hats in deep piles. Pillboxes, of course, and cloches and those 1920 drapes. Berets or turbans as they're about as you see fit, and colors, colors—blue, rust, purple, peacock and the invincible black velvet.

TAKE A LETTER

Postoffice Write Here. We went into Center Stationers in the Shopping Center to buy a stamp and came out with a recording by William Masselos, a slide rule and party punch game.

We did not buy a secretary-size metal desk for $66.75, but only because we do not have a secretary. This desk, however, is a terrific buy, and we suggest it for people who will shortly have homework to do. Two drawers on one side, one in the middle, fire resistant top. There's a big executive size, too. More drawers.

To a layman, the variety of office equipment available in this store is astonishing. Work sheet pads, stock forms for inter-office memos, bills of lading, voucher checks. Millions of ledgers and ledger papers, double entry forms, debit, credit and balance forms and metal files in so many sizes, shapes and designs that a clerk would go berserk trying to decide which one to use for what.

On the more frivolous side, there is Horrible Herman, the Asiatic Insect, for kids to take the first day of school, that punch game we mentioned, which is designed to be the life of the party, and all kinds of ten-cent favors for entertaining and one-dollar presents for prize winners. These one-dollar gifts, by the way, are mostly useful and attractive desk accessories, a memo "mole," magnetic memo pads, letter holders, calendars and so on, all with a deceptively expensive air.

The record side—and we don't mean office records this time—is quite a versatile department, including Aaron Copland's Piano Fantasy as well as "The Teenagers." There's a book department at Center Stationers, too, with a file of Modern Library volumes, Golden books and such esoterica as "The Child's Modern Way to Spelling and Arithmetic."

In the luggage department, we found a $30 attache case, and a $2.98 two-hole zip notebook with book bag and portable umbrella. Notebooks come in pink for girls, and a stalwart brown for boys.

(Ana Balin) who has a leg tumor—Gazzara says it is benign, while March says it is malignant. Meanwhile, March (who wins out in the tumor argument) makes a mistake in testing the blood of the pregnant wife (Phyllis Love) of intern Clark and has to be bailed out by Albert.

As melodramatic adult fare, the film is technically quite good. But as a study of the problems of the present-day

FRENCH MARKETS

Fall Series Opens Sept. 8.
The French Flower Market will open for the fall season next Friday. To continue each succeeding Friday until the first frost arrives, the market will be held on the small tri-angle across from TOWN TOPICS.

Cut flowers, vegetables, fruits and plants are sold for the benefit of community wel-fare projects. The markets are sponsored by The Garden Club of Princeton. Mrs. Ewart John White Jr. and Mrs. Irving B. Kingsford Jr. will serve as fall co-chairmen.

HOSPITAL CLASS ENTERS

Four Area Women Among 20. Four area residents are among 20 women who will en-ter Princeton Hospital's School of Practical Nursing Tuesday. The hospital graduated its second class last Friday.

Three are graduates of Princeton High School: Carole A. Cruser and Mary V. Hutch-inson, of Hopewell, and Elsie M. Metcalfe, Cold Soil Road. A Hightstown High alumna, Charlotte W. Trowbridge, Cranbury, is also a member of the fourth hospital class.

Miss Cruser is the holder of the Sororist Scholar-ship. Miss Metcalfe also attended Trenton Junior College before enrolling in the school.

CAR TROUBLES!

Battery, Fence, Wallet.
When Mr. Mamie Oldham, 25 Clay Street, tried to start her car Monday morning, she won-dered why it wouldn't start. The answer was that someone had stolen the car's battery during the night as it was parked in the lot of the Clay Street Hageman Housing Pro-ject.

On Saturday afternoon a section of fence on the prop-erty of William J. Holt, 3 Hor-nor Lane, was knocked down by a rolling, driverless car. Police report that a station wagon, owned by Jeno Pollac-ska, Trenton, and parked on North Harrison Street had rolled backward about 500 feet, jumped the Horner Lane curb, and traveled across Mr. Holt's lawn, striking his fence and barking a tree.

Miss Madeline O'Donnell re-ported to Borough police Fri-day that someone had lifted her wallet from the front seat of her car which was parked on Palmer Square West oppo-

Obituaries

Dr. Diran M. Majarian, 57, of 94 Rosedale Road, died August 28 at his summer home in Sea Girt after a brief illness. A Princeton dentist for the last 25 years, he was on the staff of Princeton Hospital for 20 years.

A graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, he was a captain in the Army Medical Corps during World War II. Surviving are his wife, Leonarda Hesperide Majarian; two sons, Diran, Jr. and Mark Raymond; and a daughter, Joan Marie.

The Rev. Francis C. Huntington officiated at the service, held at Trinity Church. Interment was in Princeton Cemetery under the direction of the Mather Funeral Home.

Dr. Howard P. Robertson, 58, a former member of the Princeton University faculty, and a scientific adviser to President Kennedy, died August 27 in Pasadena, Calif., as a result of injuries sustained in a traffic accident. At Princeton from 1929 until after World War II, he attracted wide attention in 1931 by proclaiming that Dr. Albert Einstein had gone too far in proclaiming his General Theory of Relativity. He believed that the truth lay between Dr. Einstein's "cylindrical world" and the "spherical world" of German mathematician W. de Sitter.

A member of the faculty at California Institute of Technology at the time of his death, he had outlined a plan for testing Dr. Einstein's theory by using earth satellites.

While a Princeton faculty member during World War II, Dr. Robertson served in several capacities as a scientific military adviser. He received the United States Medal of Merit for "solving complex technical problems in the fields of bomb ballistics, penetrations and patterns and enemy secret weapons."

Mrs. Annie Roop Palmer, 85, Hopewell, died August 24 in Takoma Park, Md. Services were held in Hopewell with the Rev. John H. Ginter officiating.

Surviving are her husband Ray A. Palmer who is living with a daughter, Mrs. Edith Poppeno of Silver Springs, Md.; two sons, Harvey R. of Hopewell and Roy E. of Miami, Fla.; and five grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Mrs. Bertha Schach, 73, died at her home in Princeton Junction August 25. Services were held at the Mather Funeral Home with Dr. William L. Tucker of Second Presbyterian Church officiating. Interment will be at the convenience of the family.

The widow of William M. Schach, she is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Arnold Bradford of Princeton Junction and Mrs. Charles E. Tessen of Trenton; three sons, Robert H. Schach of Cranbury and John and Joseph Fisher of Princeton Junction; a sister, Mrs. Charles Koda of Fairfield, Conn.; and five grandchildren and six great grandchildren.

T. Quick Phillips, 83, Princeton, died August 25 in Mercer Hospital. The funeral was held at the Blackwell Memorial Home, Princeton, with the Rev. Robert Murphy of Titusville Presbyterian Church officiating. Interment was in Harborton Cemetery.

Mr. Phillips was the oldest member and a former elder of Titusville Presbyterian Church and a former Hopewell Township committee member. He was a member of Camp 150, P.O.S. of A. Jr. O.U.A.M., Titusville Grange 163 and Pomona and National Granges. The husband of the late Bertha H. Phillips, he is survived by a son, George P. Phillips of Titusville.

Clinton R. Housel, 84, Princeton, died August 26. A retired farmer, he was an elder of Calvary Orthodox Presbyterian Church of Larisons Coraer.

Services were held in the church with the Rev. W. Lee Benson officiating. Interment was in Anwell Cemetery. The husband of the late Carrie H.

Housel, he is survived by two sons, Clinton H. and Clarence E. of Pennington; two daughters, Mrs. Charles Mayer of Mercerville and Mrs. Clarence Van Dyke of White Horse; and five grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. The infant son of Thomas A. and Marjorie Mabey Devlin of 664 Columbia Avenue, Hopewell, died August 23 in St. Francis Hospital, Trenton. Surviving, besides his parents, are his brother, Thomas J. Devlin; and his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Mabey of Trenton.

Mrs. Adelaide Potts, 85, a former Kingston resident, died August 22 in Maine. The widow of Joshua R. H. Potts, she is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Helen Clarke of Highland Park, Mrs. Adelaide Brune of site the Nassau Inn. Personal papers and approximately $40 were in the wallet, according to Miss O'Donnell, a nurse at Princeton Hospital.

POST OFFICE JOBS OPEN

As Clerk Carriers. Postmaster Charles F. Murray announced that the Princeton Post Office is still accepting applications for clerk carrier positions. He said that the minimum age limit has been reduced to 17 years of age.

Applicants must either be citizens or owe permanent allegiance to the United States. Forms and additional information may be obtained at the Main Post Office, Princeton.

FOUR TEACHERS ADDED

To Hun School Faculty. Four additions have been made to the 24-member Hun School faculty for this fall. The school opens its 57th year on Wednesday, September 13.

Thomas Artin, a 1960 Princeton University graduate, will teach English. The Rev. Donald F. Cantrill, who graduated from Princeton eight years ago, will return to the community to serve as school Chaplain and teach both Spanish and Religion. He was formerly the associate

BACH RECITAL SET

For September 5. David Wells, cellist, and Phyllis Rapoport, pianist, will give an all-Bach program Tuesday evening, September 5, at the Princeton Methodist Church. The recital, to begin at 8:30, will include the Partita in E Minor for piano, the Suite in G Major for unaccompanied cello, and the Sonata in D Major for cello and piano.

The last number was originally composed for viola da gamba and harpsichord. The concert is open to the public at no charge, although there will be a free-will offering.

Mr. Wells' background includes tours throughout the country as a soloist and with chamber groups such as the Columbia Concert Trio and the Manhattan Trio. A Princeton resident, he is first cellist in the Princeton Symphony Orchestra, and is on the faculty of the Manhattan School of Music.

Miss Rapoport has performed the Bach D Minor Concerto at the Westminster Choir College, with Nicholas Harsanyi conducting, and her interpretation of the Bach Goldberg Variations has been heard on WPRB. She has been on the faculty of Florida State University and the Yale School of Music.

BABBITT HONORED

Synthesizer at Concert. Princeton University Professor Milton B. Babbitt will have his "Vision and Prayer" premiered at a Fromm Music Foundation concert at Grace Rainey Rogers Auditorium in New York City Wednesday. The RCA-Columbia-Princeton Electronic Synthesizer, unveiled last May, will be used in the rendition of the piece for voice and synthesized accompaniment.

The concert will be invitational, in connection with the Congress of International Society for Musicology, meeting in New York at the time.

LIBERACE COMING

Next at Lambertville. Liberace and his International revue will move into St. John Terrel's Music Circus, Lambertville for a week-long stand Monday. The present attraction, the Rogers and Hammerstein musical, "The King and I," will continue through Sunday.

In addition to Liberace himself, the International revue features Janet Medlin, who starred with the touring company of "Kiss Me Kate," and Anden's Poodles, a quartet which perform balancing and acrobatic feats. The revue will run through next Sunday.

The Music Circus's present attraction, "The King and I," stars Shirli Conway, Erik Rhodes and Claire Alexander. Louis Macmillan is staging the musical, with Edward Earle in charge of choreography.

"FANTASTICKS" AT BUCKS

Musical Due Monday. "The Fantasticks," a widely acclaimed musical still playing after 18 months Off-Broadway, will open at the Bucks County Playhouse Monday. Starring Ed Ames and Marylyn Walters, the production will run for two weeks.

Joining the stars in the New Hope presentation of the whimsical comedy will be Marc Pressel, John Brandon, Robert Dagny, Dale MacDonald, Roy Scott and Willy Switkes. The production will be staged by Theodore Mann, with musical direction and arrangements by Lewis Cooper.

Mr. Ames is one of the famed singing Ames Brothers. His leading lady starred in the London production of "West Side Story."

He was the husband of Carmelita DiMeglio. Also surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Carmelita Scatchard and a son, Bartholomew Di Meglio, both of Princeton, and four grandchildren.

The funeral will be held this Friday from the Kimble
Funeral Home, with requiem high mass to be celebrated at 10 a.m. in St. Paul's Church.
Burial will be in the parish cemetery.

Mrs. Margaret B. Kennedy
Ralph, 73, of Wosamsa Road, Pennington, died August 27 at her home. The widow of Paul J. Ralph, a naval architect, she was the first president of the Trenton College Club, former president of the Old Barracks and Trent House Association and a former chairman of the arts committee at the State Museum.

Treasurer of the Kennedy Lumber Company, she was a former member of the board of the YWCA. Mrs. Ralph graduated from Wellesley College in 1909, and studied painting at the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts. She was awarded the Crescent

IT'S BACK TO SCHOOL
For Children, Teachers,
Princeton Borough Schools will open next Thursday, with the Township following a day later. Both school systems plan teachers meetings for the two days preceding the students' arrival.

Borough teachers will gather in each of the three schools Tuesday and Wednesday to study curricular revisions and additions and to organize for the coming year. The entire staff will meet at Princeton High School Wednesday for a talk by Dr. Chester Stroup, superintendent of schools, followed by luncheon.

In the Township, the staff will meet at the Valley Road School Wednesday for a workshop directed by Dr. John Mc-Kenna, acting superintendent of schools. Sessions at the individual schools will follow
Thursday.

The teachers in the Borough will be introduced to portions of the School Mathematics Study Group materials for grades 4, 5 and 6 and to a new spelling program which is being considered for the Nassau Street School. Also, Dr. Louise Ratner, 11 Cleveland Lane, a professor of English at New York University, and Mrs.

Catherine Stechini, 144 Kich-ory Court, well-known English teacher at the High School, will discuss additions to the English curriculum with the staff of the Witherspoon School.

In the Township, teachers will hear Professor Milton Steinhauer of Rutgers University discuss new trends in elementary education. Associate Professor John B. McIlroy of Princeton State College will consult with the teachers on the introduction of portions of the School Mathematics Study Group program.

a white cloth hung over the blackboard.
Miss Hall plays two notes on the piano, one low and one high, and the child affixes one of the black discs at the bottom of the cloth and another at the top. Different notes played on the piano mean placing the black discs in different places, thus putting across the theory behind notation.
The Music Playshops for first graders have a similar program to those for kindergarten children, but the students progress more quickly. They learn notation earlier in the year and by January start reading music well enough to play piano pieces covering four octaves.
This wide range is also a result of Miss Clark's philosophy.

ing them questions about the plot.

Then, after a section of the record has been played, each child acts out his version of what has happened—the wolf sneaking out of the forest, for example, or the bird circling around the wolf's head. To tie in further the music with other phases of the child's world, each also draws a picture of Peter, or the wolf, or one of the other characters in the story.

The other class activities are similarly music-associated. A brief refreshment period, featuring a glass of fruit juice and a cookie, also includes acting out a singsong story told by Miss Hall. And the traditional game of hide and seek is played on drums, with the main group of children beating out, "Where are you?," and the child who is "it" playing a faint answer on his own drum.

Notation Next. By the end of the school year, the kindergarten group moves on to the idea that written music represents the sounds they have been hearing, and the first steps are taken toward learning music notation. One notation game involves note-shaped black discs, about 2 inches in diameter, which will stick to

DRUMS ARE FUN
Especially in School. Spending an hour and a half playing games, listening to records, beating drums and acting out stories is certainly one way for children to have fun. However, for the children enrolled in the Music Playshop courses at the New School for Music Study, 353 Nassau Street, every hour and a half spent this way is part of a study program which eventually leads to piano playing.
The program was evolved by Miss Frances Clark, director of the school, and exemplifies her philosophy of music teaching. "We want children to discover the enjoyment of music before they learn the mechanics," she explained. "Once they realize that music is a part of their own world, they become interested in learning the written symbols which represent the sounds."
Miss Clark, formerly chairman of piano pedagogy at Westminster Choir College, established the New School for Music Study a year ago. Main purpose of the school is the training of piano teachers and the Music Playshop courses are designed to serve a dual function: music instruction for the children enrolled, and teaching experience for student teachers. Sessions for the school year ahead opens September 21st.

General instructor of the Music Playshops is Miss Elizabeth G. Hall, a former Westminster Choir College student who received her bachelor's degree there in 1957 and her master's in 1959. Always interested in teaching children, Miss Hall taught under Miss Clark at the Choir College before becoming a member of the staff of the New School for Music Study.

Two Age Groups. There are Music Playshops for two age groups, kindergarten children and those in first grade. In accordance with Miss Clark's teaching philosophy, both are designed to create "music readiness" in the students.

The kindergarten children, for instance, may listen to a record which tells a story, such as "Peter and the Wolf." The musical themes which represent the various characters in the story are pointed out by Miss Hall, who also keeps the children's interest by ask-

EXEMPT PROPERTY GAINS

Triplex in Township. Tax exempt property in both Princeton municipalities has increased heavily in the past five years, the New Jersey Taxpayers Association reported this week. With every municipality in the county except Trenton showing an increase, Mercer leads the other 20 counties in the State in this respect.

In Princeton Township, non-taxable property increased better than 300 percent during the five-year period, rising from $2,001,000 to more than $7,870,000. The dollar increase was even larger in the Borough ($24,855,000 to $31,342,000) but the percentage jump was not as large.

New School Hours Listed

Both the Borough's Nassau Street School and the Montgomery Township School will go on new time schedule this fall. For Nassau Street pupils, the new times will mean a lengthening of the school day by as much as 40 minutes, while for Montgomery Township children the new schedule will add only 10 minutes.

All children will report to the Nassau Street School at 8:30 a.m., leave for lunch at 11:30, return at 12:30 and finally depart at 3 p.m. In the past, the lunch hour was staggered, with the kindergarten receiving only 2 hours 50 minutes of instruction.

The Montgomery Township School will operate from 8:50 a.m. to 3 p.m. The old times were 9 to 2:40.

by municipalities: Hopewell Borough, $265,000 to $291,000; Lawrence Township, $6,834,000 to $17,435,000; Pennington Borough, $787,000 to $2,825,000; West Windsor, $181,000 to $421,000.

Mercer County showed an overall increase of nearly 81 percent, with the $294 million total of non-taxable property representing about 37 percent of the real estate in Mercer. The statewide county average is 29.1 percent.

ADULT SCHOOL

Sept. 28th Opening. The fall term of the Princeton Adult School will begin September 28 and run through December 7. A complete listing of all courses and registration information and blank will appear in the TOWN TOPICS' issue of September 7.

All classes will be held at Princeton High School. The opening of the school will be preceded by an Open House to be held in the High School Cafeteria the afternoon and evening of September 21 when students may register in person. Anyone seeking to register after this date will be charged a late fee for each course.

It is important that the Adult School Committee know as early as possible the approximate registration. If some classes do not fill up they may be dropped; more popular classes may have to have additional sections.

Language classes will be offered in French, Italian, Spanish, Russian and German. Other classes will be offered in jewelry-making, typing, bridge, sculpture, sewing, tailoring and tile painting to name just a few.

The new survey by Engineers, Inc. proves that "winter dirt" is not caused by home heating fuels but is merely dirt that is re-distributed in the home by hot and cool air currents. Therefore, you can use either fuel confident that, so far as the fuel is concerned, your home will stay "white glove clean", with equipment that has been properly installed and maintained.

ELECTRONICS FIRM HERE
Formed by Princetonians. Another firm has joined the ever-growing group of electronics companies based in the Princeton area. Formed in January by a group of area residents, the Princeton Allied Research Corporation has leased a 7200 square foot manufacturing plant in Princeton Junction.

Working in the plant, located on Hightstown Road and formerly used by the Applied Science Corporation of Princeton, will be Emil W. Lehmann, president of the firm, and Ernest C. Chaykowsky, marketing and sales manager, plus five other full-time employees. Other officers include Dr. Thomas Coor, vice-president; Charles C. Townsend Jr., secretary-treasurer; and Dr. Robert H. Dicke, senior scientific consultant.

Princeton Applied Research hopes to occupy its new plant in early September. Its first product will be a precision power reference source which has been developed at the firm's temporary Nassau Street office.

Later, it will offer a wide-range digital temperature measuring device and other electronic instruments. Product marketing will be on a national scale through manufacturer's representatives.

The firm's president, Mr. Lehmann, was formerly an associate engineering and development division head at Princeton University's plasma physics laboratory. The other full time officer, Mr. Chaykowsky, was chief engineer in charge of electronic systems at General Devices Inc.

Much of the financing of the firm was achieved by the placement of stock with scientists and engineers in the Princeton area and with members of the local financial and business community. The board of directors, includes Mr. Lehman, Dr. Coor, Dr. Dicke and Leighton H. Laughlin, research executive with Opinion Research Corporation.

URBAN RENEWAL

EDITOR'S NOTE: As a public service, and as the Borough of Princeton rounds out its sixth successive year of both public and private discussions of Urban Renewal and the question of a "through street" paralleling Nassau Street, TOWN TOPICS recalls and reprints the thoughtful statement on "Urban Renewal and the New Through Street" prepared by Dr. Richard A. Lester in 1959. The nationally known economist, Chairman of Princeton University's Department of Economics, was then serving as a member of Borough Council and as Chairman of the Council's Finance Committee.

While Professor Lester's dollars-and-cents figures, both estimated and actual, were determined in 1959, his discussion bears upon the broad questions of relative benefits to the Borough of "the relocation of Jackson Street WITHOUT Federal aid," or the "relocation of Jackson Street UNDER the Urban Renewal Program."

Inasmuch as Mayor and Council represent all of Princeton Borough including those groups and individuals whose opinions have been repeatedly expressed at public meetings as well as the great majority of taxpayers not in attendance at such meetings, it is only right, at this stage in the discussion of Urban Renewal and the long-projected "through street," that the citizens of the Borough should be given as clear a picture as possible of the alternatives now confronting the Borough.

Reducing a complex problem to basic terms, the alternatives are:

I. (without Urban Renewal) The Borough would "go it alone" and construct the street on its own, assuming full financial responsibility for the acquisition of the land for the street and for then constructing the link between Avalon Place and Wiggins Street.

OR

II. (with Urban Renewal) The "through street," paralleling Nassau Street, would be an integral part of an overall program permitting the redevelopment of the entire area between Hulfish and Green Streets (and John and Witherspoon), a redevelopment program strongly advocated for the past 5-6 years by highly competent professional planners.

These two alternatives (i.e., with or without Urban Renewal) bring the Borough face-to-face with three all-important questions: 1. financial, 2. relocation of families and businesses, and 3. the future development of the Princeton Community.

To facilitate consideration of these three issues, I should like first to summarize the conclusions on each and then to present the basis for those conclusions. The order of treatment is for convenience of discussion and carries no implication of a ranking by importance of the subject.

1. With Urban Renewal the cost of the new street would be lowered considerably (by as much as $150,000), and the taxpayers would have an additional possible saving of $50,000 a year growing out of the increase in assessed values resulting from renewal improvements.

Under Urban Renewal, new housing units would be constructed so that 12-14 families with low incomes, who might otherwise be forced to leave the community when the dwellings they occupy are replaced by the street, would be assured of housing geared to their incomes, with full relocation costs paid for them; also the business properties could be advantageously relocated

RELATIVE MERITS: A Princetonian since 1945, who has combined his career as a teacher-scholar with service in a number of governmental capacities, Dr. Lester, a former president of Borough Council, has analyzed what Urban Renewal could mean, and could not mean, to the Borough of Princeton. This is a subject that will be thoroughly aired in the weeks ahead with the approach of the Borough's biennial mayoralty election. (Orren Jack Turner Photo.)

or their owners compensated.

3. Through Urban Renewal, Princeton could improve its physical resources in line with the recommendations of planning experts, and also enhance the possibilities for the community's future development.

Let us examine the grounds for those conclusions.

1. Financial:

Although some of the dollar figures are estimates, partly because they involve guesses as to the cost of land and building acquisition, the cost to the Borough for the new street under Alternatives I. (without Urban Renewal) would be upwards of $250,000. There would also be a loss in tax rateables currently assessed at about $54,000.

Without Urban Renewal the costs to the Borough might be slashed, if Princeton Municipal Improvement Inc. and other private owners would relinquish without compensation, all rights to access from Jackson Street and if the Borough could then trade Jackson Street for sufficient right-of-way for the new link between John and Witherspoon Streets.

On the other hand, the cost to the Borough under Urban Renewal is without question greatly reduced. The Federal Government would share on a two-to-one basis in the cost of the entire area project, with the Federal share of the undertaking estimated at $500,000-$600,000. This figure, assuming high acquisition costs, does not include the $28,500 of Federal money that would be immediately available for the relocation of families and businesses.

With Urban Renewal the net cash cost to the Borough of the long-sought street can be "guesstimated" at approximately $100,000, and possibly less. Not only would the Borough gain financially by the immediate difference in the cost of the street (with vs. without Urban Renewal), but the amount of tax rateables to be gained with Urban Renewal would be substantial, a gain in which the Borough as a whole would share. The additional tax revenue with Urban Renewal might be as much as $50,000 a year or a half-million dollars over a decade.

2. Relocation:

a. Families - without Urban Renewal

With or without Urban Renewal there is the deep moral obligation to relocate displaced families. With Urban Renewal there is an additional mandatory obligation and the "mechanics" of relocation are carefully spelled out by Federal statute.

If the proposed street, a project enjoying near-unanimous support, is built without Federal funds, there would be no way of assuring additional new housing without the Borough shouldering the full cost.

The hope has been expressed that some citizens in the John-Witherspoon Area, with understanding community assistance, would move out of their present dwellings to other areas of the Borough or Township and that owners of vacated properties in the John-Witherspoon Area would agree to rent or sell to displaced Jackson Street residents. Without Urban Renewal such multiple "housing transfers" would be left to individual initiative and presumably would need to fit in with the self interest of those directly concerned-landlords, tenants, and home owners. b. Families - with Urban Renewal public housing for the estimated 12-14 Jackson Street families whose income is too low to obtain other suitable housing in the Borough and also to help relocate some 10 other families who are not eligible for public housing, or who have expressed preference to rent, buy, or build private housing.

The new 12-14 public housing units would be mostly one-bedroom and four-bedroom units, both of which are absent in existing public housing. Some of the displaced Jackson Street families could be moved into present public housing, with small and large family units now in residence moving into new units better adapted to their size-needs.

One point should be emphasized. If under Urban Renewal the savings to the Borough, in terms of cost and tax gains, are in the neighborhood outlined above, the Borough through Public Housing could subsidize the construction of 5-6 single-family units and 7-8 one-bedroom units for the aged, all of which would comply with all of our fairly tight zoning requirements. The family units would be so designed that they would not be out of place in sections of the Borough other than the immediate John Witherspoon Area and would still not require a Borough subsidy totaling more than $10,000-$12,000. And at least part of the anticipated housing subsidy could be provided from the previously mentioned $28,500 relocation allowance supplied by the Federal Government.

During the discussions of Urban Renewal there have been a number of complaints about public housing. In this connection it seems only pertinent to ask ourselves where and in what sort of housing would the present occupants of public housing be living, if no such units had been built?

c. Business Relocation - without Urban Renewal

The business properties along the west side of Witherspoon Street, between Hulfish and Jackson, would remain untouched.

d. Business Relocation - with Urban Renewal

It might be possible to move ahead with Urban Renewal and to avoid complete dislocation, but it would be infinitely more advantageous for the long haul (and this is the unequivocal recommendation of planning consultants) to include the business properties within the area to be redeveloped. The owners will of course be handsomely compensated and it would be possible to give due financial consideration to such intangibles. Should they so desire, mutually advantageous arrangements for relocating their businesses in the same area and streets might be worked out.

3. Princeton's Future Development

Urban Renewal appears to hold significant potentialities for the future of the Borough of Princeton and presents opportunities for raising housing standards and for strengthening a central business district which is facing unprecedented competition from "without."

Such a program of Urban Renewal only becomes possible because the Federal Government would be sharing costs with the Borough. Some have warned about "reaching into the Federal Treasury" and it can also be said that as Federal taxpayers we share indirectly in the costs of Urban Renewal. However, to reject Urban Renewal in Princeton for Federal tax reasons is to present our opportunity to another community. We will continue to pay our Federal taxes whether or not Princeton has an Urban Renewal project.

The fact of Federal cost-sharing has not stopped other conservative communities from undertaking Urban Renewal projects. While the city of Pittsburgh and the Borough of Princeton have little in common, it might be noted that such families as the Mellons have played leading roles in the redevelopment of the heart of their city. Not only have they redeveloped Pittsburgh's famed "Golden Triangle," but they are now going ahead with redevelopment of residential areas - and all of this with Federal assistance.

All of us are of course concerned with Princeton's future, although our visions for the future will sometimes vary widely. In 1961 it is all too apparent that the Borough, like older towns across the land, is confronted with new population pressures (largely generated beyond Borough limits), mounting traffic worries and increasing concern for strengthening a tax structure which must be insured if Princeton is to do all of the things its citizens want their municipality to do in the decades ahead.

In the future there will doubtless be other areas in the Borough which should be redeveloped. If after investing so much time, effort, and money on Urban Redevelopment for the "blighted area" now under consideration, we abandon the whole idea and content ourselves with a "through street," will we be able even to contemplate any other Urban Redevelopment project for the years to come?

Nor would it be surprising, in the eventuality of abandonment, if the Federal Government showed no interest whatsoever in any future project and used our Federal tax payments in part for projects elsewhere.

Before the crucial decisions are finally made, the citizens of the Borough should be fully aware of the positive and constructive aspects of Urban Renewal, and the problems and drawbacks that abandonment of that program would or could entail. Naturally to date in public hearings the comments expressed have been mostly objections, some of which were based on misconceptions. I for one would not like to see this whole matter, decided until all elements of the Borough, and particularly Borough taxpayers, have had an opportunity to consider the various aspects of the problem, including the long-range implications for the whole Princeton community.

Report from THE MAYOR

Harry's Brook. Again last Friday Harry's Brook caused concern to residents in the area of Harriet Drive and Snowden Lane. It now seems obvious that the volume of water carried by this stream has been vastly increased by the building in the area in recent years. The Borough Engineering Department intends to work out a feasible plan for culverts in cooperation with the County Engineer.

This item should be a high priority, and Council President Sorenson, Chairman of the Public Works Committee of the Borough Council, told the Mayor this week he intends to place this high on the work program of that Department.

One plaguing factor: Who pays? But the comment of one area resident seemed to have a lot of merit, "Let's get the job done and argue the question of county-borough-property owner cost when the floods subside!"

Two Million. A recent visitor to Borough Hall asked about the origin of parking meters in America. It took a little digging to find the answer but one authority indicates that the first such meter was installed in Oklahoma City in 1935 at the suggestion of the local Chamber of Commerce. Today, there are 3,850 cities and towns which have metered parking in the United States, with just over two million meters in use.

Detective Knowles. The Police Department and other members of the Borough family were saddened by the death of Detective George Knowles who had retired just a few months ago from active duty after long service with the Borough force. Knowles liked to study literature and was very proud of his special skills in identification. In fact, this man will always recall the careful explanation he made of the classification of fingerprints. I did not learn to file fingerprints but I did learn how important to all of us, and how much we owe to the men who worry about these and other various matters for us in the course of their duty with the local Police Department.

Homeward Bound. As schools plan to open again, many Princeton folks are hurrying back from summer journeys. At Borough Hall, a large number of notes and cards flows in from travelers near and far. Last week Alan Richards wrote of a visit to the little Ayleshire town in Scotland where he was born. He talked with the Mayor and Chief Clerk of the town and that Mayor intends to send a special greeting to Princeton because a number of his former constituents now live here.

Friday Open House. The regular weekly "Tell it to the Mayor!" session will be held on Friday, September 1st and on Friday, September 8th from 7 to 10 p.m. at Borough Hall. No appointment is ever necessary for these informal meetings. Earlier this week the Mayor was in Portland, Oregon to attend some meetings and Council President Sorenson served as acting Mayor. Next week Mayor and Council will meet to prepare the agenda for the regular September session scheduled for Tuesday, September 12th.

CAPPON RETIRES

As Assistant Coach, Franklin "Cappy" Cappon, head basketball coach and assistant football coach at Princeton University since 1938, is giving up his football duties to concentrate on basketball. He will be succeeded by Robert F. Casciola, a member of the University's freshman football staff, R. Kenneth Fairman, Director of Athletics, announced.

Cappon suffered a heart attack last January in the middle of the basketball season and was forced to retire for the remainder of the campaign. But, according to Princeton medical advice, he is expected to direct the Tiger basketball team again this November.

A former coach and athletic director at the University of Michigan, his alma mater, Cappon has served as assistant football coach at Princeton under Elton "Bud" Weisman, the late Charlie Caldwell and Dick Colman. Over the past 12 years, his basketball teams have won five Ivy championships.

Casciola, an All-Ivy tackle at Princeton in 1957 and line coach on the freshman football staff for the past three years, is regarded as "one of the finest linemen to have played at Princeton." The New Hyde Park, N.Y. native was one of two linemen to win a letter as a sophomore in 1955. He is a graduate of the Manlius School.

PHS LINE IS THIN

This is the second of two articles on Princeton High School football prospects for 1961.

Reserves Move Up. The phrase, "It's What's Up Front That Counts," applies as aptly to a football team as it does to filter cigarettes. That a poor football line is the shortest distance to defeat was never more memorably demonstrated than it was last October 14 when the Little Tigers tangled with its arch rivals from Trenton High School. PHS entered the contest unbeaten in three games, having scored impressive, come-from-behind victories over highly-touted Peddie and Middletown Township. With only an average record, the Tornadoes were not expected to give the Blue and White too much trouble in its first defense of the mythical Mercer County crown it had won the year before.

CAPS ONE CAREER: Franklin "Cappy" Cappon, head basketball coach and assistant football coach at Princeton since 1938, is giving up his football duties to concentrate on basketball.

The Little Tigers were beaten, 33-6, in the most lopsided defeat they had suffered in years.

In the first minute of play the visiting Red and Black eleven discovered the PHS defensive line was vulnerable off guard and tackle on one side of the line. They exploited this discovery without let up.

The first two times the Tornadoes had possession of the ball they rove 71 and 73 yards for touchdowns. Three more time they were to drive relentlessly down field to score. In all, coach Pat Clemens' rampaging backs gained 349 yards. And they did it all without the aid of a single pass!

With its offensive and defensive units outplayed, outcharged, and outfought, Princeton High lapsed into a state of shock. Its hall carriers were stopped cold. The team fell apart.

Of its remaining three games, PHS lost one, tied one and won its finale by one point.

Line Has Gaps. A major rebuilding job faces Dick Wood and Jerry Groninger this year, offensive line coach and defensive coach, respectively. There are nine returning lettermen who are linemen. But all of these have only limited varsity experience. The offensive line, in particular, will be composed of green players.

A number of boys who played junior varsity ball will be vying with one another to fill those holes. "They are all nice boys," says PHS head coach Joe Jingoli, "and all are a pleasure to coach. All of them have a chance to make the team."

Among the returning lettermen, and the men who will be moving up, these are the chief candidates for the line positions. No allowances have been made for newcomers or for possible changes in the availability status of each player.

Ends: Of the eight present contenders, three—Art Fidler, Jim Norris, and Dan Uman—earned letters playing that position, either offensively or defensively, last year.

A junior, the 6'2", 178-pound Norris, who won his letter in basketball last year, is tagged by Jingoli as an "excellent pass receiver." Bidler is a "good offensive blocking end" who filled in for starter Joe Beachell last year. He and Uman, who played as defensive end, are both seniors. Two other seniors, Bob Durling and Frank Cocciolillo will get a shot at the position. Durling, reports Jingoli, is a rugged kid and may come along this year. Also in contention are Brian Smitley, Sam Spangenberg, and Jim Wheeler, three juniors moving up from the junior varsity.

Tackles: For the tackle positions, as with the ends, there are eight present contenders, three of whom are lettermen. In this trio, all seniors, are Gary Mount, Joe Cox, and Don Opdyke. The 6'2", 184-pound Opdyke saw a lot of action last year as a running tackle. He should see even more in the same position this year.

The tackle spot will be new to Mount this fall. Tall, 6'2", and 185 pounds, Mount played at end last fall, turning in a fine defensive performance against Long Branch, but both Groninger and Wood feel he will work out better this year as a tackle. At 205, Cox is one of the heaviest players on the squad. Jingoli reports that coach Groninger "is expecting great things from him both offensively and defensively." Groninger shouldn't be disappointed.

Three juniors will also be fighting for a starting berth. They are Mike Cooper, Allen Abelson, and Dave Hulfish. Jingoli calls Hulfish "a pretty rugged kid" and Cooper "should come along." A pair of seniors, John Counts and Bob Schwenker, completes the list of tackle candidates.

Guards: The weakest links in the PHS line are the guard positions. Jack Brittain, a junior, is the only returning letterman and many enter another school. A rock 'em, sock 'em player, Jack is a "good pass rusher" and his departure, if it materializes, will leave an even more gaping hole to be filled.

Ready to move in are seniors Bob Copeland and Al Altieri. Both are promising and should be ready to go, but they lack experience. Two juniors are other contenders, one of whom, Joe Fanek, may transfer out of PHS. The other is Joe Squitieri.

A final candidate is senior Guy Lamkin. Guy weighs in at 230 pounds and "should be able to play some ball for us." According to Jingoli, Groninger—Continued on Page 19 ger is counting on Lamkin to anchor the middle line on defense.

Center: Two senior lettermen and two juniors will fight it out for the center position. Tom Volz won his letter playing behind starter John Dalle Pezzo and has the most experience playing the position. He "reacts fast" and is "good on defense." Tom is 5'10" and weighs 160.

The second senior contender is Pete Greefield who played tackle last year. Pete has been moved to center by Coach Wood who feels he'll help the team more in that spot. "Pete tries to give his best all of the time," reported Jingoli.

Competition will come from Jim Davidson and Bob Bennett. Bennett is a "smart, bright player, the kind we like to work with." Both are untested.

Summing up, the linemen lack experience at every position. There is adequate weight at tackle and talent at center to enable Wood and Groninger to devote most of their time to the holes at the guard positions. The ends should be ready by the opening game with Freehold September 30, although some more height would help. The big question mark that remains is how well the hole at guard will be plugged.

TWILIGHT COACH: Peter J. Morgan, head track coach at Princeton University, has completed directing and coaching a successful twilight summer track program for young men aged 15 to 25.

TRACK PROGRAM HAILED

Directed by Pete Morgan, A seven-week, twilight summer track program has been termed a success by Peter J. Morgan, head coach at Princeton University who conceived, coached, and directed it.

This history of this unique program begins in November, 1959, when Morgan attended President Eisenhower's Council on Youth Fitness in Washington, D.C., then headed by Dr. Shane McCarthy. At the meeting Pete suggested a twilight summer track recreational program be held between 6 and 8 in the evening. During these hours the boys whom the program would be trying to reach would be free to attend and the weather for track would be most ideal.

According to Morgan, the twilight track idea is not new. The Amateur Athletic Union does conduct twilight meets, but there is no regular coaching sessions or development. They are geared primarily to teams and college boys. Moreover, most of them were limited to the larger cities. "My idea," said Morgan, "was for all 50 states to establish a minimum of 50 development track centers with the possibility that some of the larger states might have more."

Go Ahead Given. Last year the Kennedy administration's "Operation Fitness", part of America's Health and Physical Education Program, and directed by Bud Wilkinson, former head coach at the University of Oklahoma, asked Morgan to run a pilot project of his idea and to report the results. Morgan reported he had just turned in his report to Congressman Frank Thompson, Jr. who passed it on to Wilkinson. "I'm waiting to hear from them now," he added.

The program was undertaken for three main reasons. The first had a dual purpose: to help carry out President Kennedy's physical fitness program and to develop, if possible, future olympic athletes.

"Ninety-eight percent of our olympic teams are staffed with college personnel," said Morgan. "There must be a great untapped source of boys with athletic ability who don't get to college. Track is not a country club sport like golf. It is demanding of stamina and muscle and it needs to attract the so-called tough kid of the community."

A second reason was to help fight the problem of juvenile delinquency. For the boys 9 to 15, who receive a lot of supervision as members of a Little League or Babe Ruth League, the problem is less serious. But the boy over 15 doesn't have anything to turn to in sports, Morgan pointed out, unless he possesses a superior baseball talent and can play in a summer league. Very few make it. Also, 15 is an ideal age for a boy to start specializing, as far as track is concerned.

Summer 'Is Best. Finally,

TRI-COUNTY CHAMPIONS: The Princeton Athletic Club went from the cellar in the Tri-County League to the League title this year in defeating the defending champions, Montgomery Township, Thursday night and winning the second and deciding game by default. track needs good weather, and the summer, with its warmth, is the best time of the year for it, as far as 75 percent of the country is concerned. The track teams from California and Texas, which have ideal track weather the year round, are better than teams from other schools in the country and "I think it is entirely due to the weather," said Morgan. "We in the East have passed up the summer months as the best training period for track."

After some publicity and organizational meetings, Morgan conducted his first evening coaching session on July 1. Different track events were scheduled for different nights. It ran for seven weeks, culminating in a city championship track and field meet August 18. The whole program was conducted at Trenton's Central High School's field.

From the first, Morgan recalled, attendance at practice sessions sustained itself. Between 40 and 50 boys attended regular sessions. On the last four Friday nights, Morgan held development contests in which 70 or more boys participated. The whole thing was conducted on an all-comes basis.

There was opportunity to try out for 14 events, a whole college track program with the exception of the hammer. Whenever possible, Morgan broke the boys down into three groups: 15 and under; 16, 17 and over. This was done to encourage the younger boy just leaving Little Leagues to come and feel he wasn't going to have to compete against boys a lot older or more experienced.

"It worked out very well, too," Pete reported, "especially in the sprint classes where we had as many as 30 out a night. That's the area where the novice, afraid of the longer distances, is most likely to plunge in and start."

Princetonians Enter. Four boys from Princeton were among the boys who took advantage of the program. Lamont Fletcher, co-captain of the PHS track team last year, won the 100 low hurdles in the city championship meet and was runner up in the high's. Joe Beachell, co-captain with Fletcher, won the javelin event with a fine toss of 186 feet. Steve Schietta, who ran the 100-yard dash for PHS in 1959, came in first in that event. Carl Pettit also competed.

Locally, the program was sponsored by the City Recreation Department of Trenton, directed by Mrs. Ethel Gault, who reported they were well pleased with the results Morgan feels the program could be financed on a national and state level by some type of subsidy. Local financial aid could come from the recreation department budget or from some interested industrial concern.

"The key to the success of the program is to have a trained, experienced track coach who can promote, publicize, and coach," said Morgan who did all of the coaching for every session. He was assisted in non-coaching duties by Jim Varen, a Trenton school teacher.

Worthy Trying. "I feel it's well worth trying elsewhere," Morgan said "For the first few years it could be kept on an intra-area basis. Then, as the program grew, all areas could compete for a state championship."

President Kennedy's concern over the physical unfitness of our nation's youth is not unfounded. Just as the gifted academic student requires special attention, so does the physically gifted boy who has a lot of talent and energy. "He isn't," said Morgan, "going to be satisfied with just volley ball or some kind of intra-mural activity."

Pete Morgan and his twi-

IT'S SEVEN AGAIN

As it did in 1960, the Princeton High School football team will meet only seven opponents this year.

Two new schools, Steiner (Trenton) and Hamilton High Schools are newcomers to the schedule. Peddie and Ewing have been dropped. With their first three games scheduled away, the Little Tigers will not play its home opener until October 20.

The 1961 PHS schedule: Sept. 30, Freehold away; Oct. 7, Middletown Township, away; 13, Trenton High, away; 20, Trenton Catholic; 27, Steiner; Nov. 3, Long Branch, and 11, Hamilton.

light track program have taken a big step not only in providing an outlet for boys with proven athletic ability, but for developing the innate talent of others as well.

Pete Morgan has been head track coach at Princeton University since 1957 when he succeeded Matthew T. Gwis who retired the year before. A 1929 honors graduate of Notre Dame where he was a varsity middle distance runner, he received an MA from New York University the following year and began a highly successful, 15-year coaching career in Trenton, his native city.

From 1937-1946 his Central High School teams won 40 of 41 dual meets and eight New Jersey Conference Titles.

N. J. RIVERS EXPLORED
Cawley's Book Republished.

A revised version of "Exploring the Little Rivers of New Jersey" by James and Margaret Cawley was published by the Rutgers University Press Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. Cawley are former Princeton residents now living in Claremont, N. J.

Released originally by the Princeton University Press in 1942, the book has become a favorite guide to canoeists throughout the state. The revised edition includes a new chapter on the Delaware and Raritan Canal—the scene of Mr. and Mrs. Cawley's first meeting 51 years ago.

Mr. Cawley also had "Historic New Jersey in Pictures" published by the Princeton University Press in 1939. While a resident of Princeton from 1942-1954, he served as a canoe handling and first aid instructor and on the Township Board of Education.

District Sales Manager of "Factory Magazine" before his retirement to New Hampshire, Mr. Cawley organized and headed the Princeton University Advertising and Sales Forum for seven years. He and his wife still return to New Jersey yearly for canoe trips.

Dr. John A. Bornmann, 88 North Stanworth Drive, a former research associate in plastics and mechanical engineering at Princeton University, has been appointed assistant professor of chemistry at Northern Illinois University, DeKalb Illinois. He formerly taught at Indiana University, where he received his Ph. D.

ABOARD USS ROOKS: David A. Cromwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Cromwell, 43 Park Place, is stationed on the U.S.S. Rooks in Newport, R.I. He attended Notre Dame High School and was graduated from the U.S. Navy Fleet Sonar School, Key West, Fla.

TO CELEBRATE GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY: Mr. and Mrs. Peter Mattiella, 36 Harris Road, will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary Thursday. The couple, married August 31, 1911, in Italy, have spent their entire married life in Princeton. Mr. Mattiella worked for Princeton University and operated the then—Tiger Market in the Township before his retirement.

Dr. William S. Dix, 94 Mes-Cosh Circle, librarian of Princeton University and chairman of the U.S. National Commission for UNESCO, attended the 45th meeting of its executive committee at the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, United Nations Plaza, in New York. The committee examined the roles of the Commission in light of increased government emphasis of educational and cultural programs. The Commission, headed by Dr. Dix, consists of 100 persons, including government officials and representatives of the leading educational organizations in the country.

Army PFC Charles L. Crans-toun, Carter Road, recently attended a five-day religious retreat at the Army's Far East retreat site near Seoul, Korea. A graduate of Princeton High School, he is a wireman in 1 Corps' 8th Artillery. He entered the Army last August.

Mrs. Eugenia Warren Herbert, daughter of Mrs. Robert Beach Warren, Province Line Road, has just published a book, "The Artist and Social Reform." Mrs. Herbert is the wife of Professor Robert Herbert of Yale University.

Dr. Philip B. Ashby, 3 Col-lege Road, assistant dean of the college and associate professor of religion at Princeton University, lectured to the faculty and students of Air University's War College, Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala. A member of the American Council of Learned Societies' committee on history of religions, Dr. Ashby spoke on "Dominant World Religions and their Role," then spent an hour answering questions of 166 selected students from War College's Class of 1962.

Miss Jacqueline Holst, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. A. Cromwell, 528 Mercer Road, attended a Conference Officer Training School for Sigma U.S.S. Rooks in Newport, R.I. Kappa social sorority in Denver, Colorado. Miss Holst is vice-president of the Delta Rho chapter of the sorority at Madison College, where she is a

Carl A. Wiley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Wiley, 207 Harrison Street, announced the receipt by his firm, Wiley Electronics of Phoenix, Ariz., of a contract to produce a vital part of America's moon vehicle. Mr. Wiley, a 1937 graduate of Princeton High School, is president of the firm which will produce the altimeter designed to separate the space capsule from the space craft.

Miss Mary Lou Kahny, 164 River Road, and Miss Cynthia Sanner, River Road, Belle Mead, will attend a three-day training program for student advisors at Douglass College, scheduled to begin Wednesday. Miss Kahny will serve as a house chairman this year, while Miss Sanner will be a "Bee Advisor" aiding the commuting students.

Lt. Ralph F. Dowgin of Route 130, Cranbury Turnpike, executive officer of New Jersey State Police Troop D, has been promoted to captain and transferred to Traffic Section of Division Headquarters in Trenton. In 1958 Captain Dowgin served as executive officer of Troop C in Princeton.

Miss Pamela Cook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter C. Cook, Heathcote Farm, Kingston, will fly from Tokyo Saturday after a summer there under the sponsorship of the American Field Service. She is among 90 American students who have been living since June with families in the Far East.

SUCCESSFUL M.P.: Army Pvt. Harry W. Morton, son of Mrs. Margaret K. Morton, 64 Clay Street, and a graduate of the Bordentown Military Institute, has just completed eight weeks of Military Police training at The Provost Marshal General's School, Fort Gordon, Ga.

FINAL PLANS SET

For Tennis Round Robin. Final plans have been made for the 3rd Annual Fall YW-YMCA Junior Round Robin Tennis Tournament. Starting time for the tourney will be 9:30 a.m. Wednesday.

Entrants should report at that time—with their equipment—to the new University courts for complete instructions and playing schedule. A small entrant's fee will be charged to defray the cost of the tournament.

Play will continue on Thursday and Friday. Those who are in school will have their matches scheduled for after school hours. The first sessions will be held Thursday at 3:30, in case of rain.

There will be two sections this year. Intermediate and advanced players will be placed on teams named after countries competing for the Davis Cup. The teams will compete against each other until the schedule is completed.

A separate program is planned for young beginners who will not be placed in round robins, but will have informal games, rallying and re-lays. For this group the final session will be held Friday from 3:30 to 5:30. Ribbons will be awarded at this time.

Those planning to enroll in the tournament may do so at the Y.M.C.A. office on Avalon Place or sign up on the Pagoda Bulletin Board at the University courts. Early registration will help the Committee in making up the playing teams.

PAC WINS PLAYOFFS

In Tri-County League, The Princeton Athletic Club won the playoffs in the Tri-County League by beating the defending champions, Montgomery Township, two games to none in the best of three series. Montgomery had won for the past three years.

The first contest, which PAC won, 5-4, was played Thursday evening at the University's Clark Field. The big hit of the game was a bases-loaded double by PAC manager Tommy Petrone in the fourth inning. Tommy also drove home the winning run with a single in the final frame.

The second contest, scheduled to be played the following night at Montgomery, was won by the league champions by default after Montgomery refused to play. Montgomery had claimed that an illegal, "Babe Ruth" baseball ball had been used while they were at bat during an inning in the first game. PAC officials maintained that the ball had been used only for one or two outs and that the official rules offer no penalty for the use of an illegal ball other than to throw the offending ball out of the game.

INNS ALL EVEN

In Softball Playoff. Ivy Inn, champions of the Sportsmen's Softball League, and Kings Inn are tied at one victory apiece in the final league playoffs. It is a best of five series.

Ivy Inn won the first game last Tuesday, 4-1, but was tied two days later when the Kingsmen edged them, 2-1. The teams will battle again Thursday evening at Pardee Field, starting at 6:30. A fifth game, if necessary, will be played Tuesday.

Our tale of a new type of house that provides more space for less bucks is dull stuff for mansion dwellers. But if you're not averse to spending money wisely and you rather like the idea of plenty of room and light and air — inside as well as out, then let's talk. I'd like to explain and show you our concept of a new type of light-hearted living that we deeply believe in — the Techbuilt House.
